SIX THOUSAND LIVES LOST.

Tornado in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 16. The steamer City of New York, from Hong Kong and Yokahama, reports that a tornado occurred in the district northeast of Kwang Lung on June 2d, and flooded the level country. Seven villages were inundated, houses swept away and more than 6,000 lives lost. Other districts suffered greatly and hundreds of lives were also lost. More than ten thousand survivors are homeless.

VIRGINIA.

The Debt Question.

RICHMOND, July 16. The counsel of the foreign bondholders, after a full hearing in London, have declined to negotiate with Parsons and Henderson concerning Virginia's debt. It is believed that the two gentlemen named will try some alliance with English banking houses.

TRIAL TRIP

Of the Gunboat Petrel.

BALTIMORE, M. D., July 10. Although the gunboat Petrel, which left here Saturday, returned this morning with part of her machinery out of order, she has shown herself a credit to the navy. The secondary link strap of the low pressure valve gear broke yesterday on her return trip. Before the accident she developed 1,200 horse power for a short time, 150 more than specified for in the contract, and made 12½ knots while not under forced draft, which indicates that she could make 16 knots when forced. She turned completely around in five minutes and thirty seconds. Thursday, at the request of the builders, she will make a four hour trial under forced draft. If the official report of the horse power developed equals that of yesterday the builders will receive $15,000 premium.

THE RIFLEMEN.

An Incorrect Report Righted.

NEW YORK, July 16. A special from London regarding the falling through of the match between the Massachusetts and North London rifle club teams, which was to have been shot Saturday, says the condition of the match were not exactly similar to those of the matches with other teams.

The conditions were made by the North London rifle club. It never occurred to Major Frost that a change would make any difference to anybody. When the conditions were made public one of the Boston teams objected to the Massachusetts men being so well treated. Major Frost was constrained to consider the objection and stated the case to Gen. Waller of the North London club. On account of the delicate position the Massachusetts team was placed in General Waller suggested calling the match off. Major Frost agreed. The report that the Massachusetts team backed out of the match is untrue. They have beaten everything so far and this match means another victory.

RHODE ISLAND.

The New Liquor Law.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 16. The legislature met to-day to adjourned special session to enact a license law. A bill was reported by a joint special committee and made special order for to-morrow. The bill provides for wholesale license fees, to be from $500 to $1000, to be determined by the license commissioners, and retail fees of $400 in the City of Providence, running down to $250 in towns according to population. There are no sub-classes of licenses provided for in the bill and everybody who wants to handle liquor of any kind or under any circumstances must pay either the wholesalers or retail fee.

FROM BOSTON.

New Company Organized.

BOSTON July 16. The Thomson-Houston European Electric Welding Company organized this morning by the election of the following directors: Oliver Ames, S. Endicott Peabody, B. F. Spinner, J. W. Smith, W. A. Bond, Charles T. Lewis, S. A. VanHoffman. Hon. Oliver Ames was chosen President, and W. A. Boland, Treasurer. The capital stock is $1,600,000.

JUDGE LYNCH.

A Horse Thief Shot.

BASSETT, Neb., July 10. Han Naphin, a horse and cattle thief, was jailed Saturday on charges of horse stealing. Last night a mob of several hundred farmers broke into the jail, and shot him to death. Fourteen bullet holes were found in his body.

THE CHUNIN CASE.

A Writ of Habeas Corpus.

CHICAGO, July 16. John F. Beggs, the imprisoned senior guardian of Camp 20, Clan-na-Gael, secured a writ of habeas corpus yesterday, fixing as a reason why he should be released that he has been imprisoned and indicted solely in the hope that he would thus be forced to turn State's witness. The testimony expected from him he says has no foundation in fact. Judge Horton denied the application.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The Queen's Prize.

LONDON, July 16. The winner of the Queen's prize in the rifle shooting at Wimbledon was Private Reid, of the first Lanarkshire regiment, who made a score of 281.

The Parnell Commission.

LONDON, July 16. Upon the opening of the Parnell commission this morning, Sir Chas. Russell, counsel for Parnell, stated that after a full consideration of the situation, Mr. Parnell had instructed him and Mr. Asquith, also of his counsel, to no longer represent him before the commission. In reply to Sir Charles' statement, which virtually was a notification that Parnell, declined to make any further prosecution of his case before the commission, Presiding Justice Hannen said: "Mr. Parnell will, of course, remain subject to the jurisdiction of the court." Messrs. Reid and Lockwood, counsel for other members of Parliament against whom charges were made by the Times, then also withdrew from the case. Parnell made personal application to the court, asking that if there was any design to further examine him he be proceeded with without delay. He complained of Attorney General Webster's action in postponing for three months his re-examination on the subject of the letters drawn by him. The court, Parnell declared, ought to appoint a day for re-examination or discharge him a further attendance. Presiding Justice Hannon promised to try to meet the convenience of Parnell by resulting him today. After the counsel for Parnell and other members of Parliament had retired Presiding Justice Hannon said the scope of examination would not be altered by their retirement. Persons hitherto represented by counsel could appear in their own defense if they desired. The taking of testimony then resumed.

West Levant Letter.

[Special Correspondence Whig and Courier.]

The pulpit was occupied last Sabbath by Rev. Mr. Morton of Stetson, who delivered a very instructive discourse.

The most terrible thunder shower that has been known here for many years, visited this place last Saturday night. The heavens looked like a sheet of flame for two hours or more as it lightened continually during that time, while the heavy peals of thunder roared incessantly. Several people were considerably affected by the electricity with which the air seemed filled. Many arose from their beds and prepared for an emergency, but no serious results of the shower are reported.

Miss Cora McLaughlin has been visiting her parents here the past week. She will soon return to Newton where she has, for several years, been engaged in the shoe shop.

Mrs. Phineas Stevens is very low and expected to live but a short time. She is suffering from a cancer which is slowly consuming her life.

The Eyans Brothers of this place, who were engaged in haying on the Hewes farm in Hermon (or vicinity), had three horses killed by lightning in Saturday night's shower. The barn which they occupied was set on fire and quickly consumed.

The farmers in this section are progressing very slowly with their haying, owing to the unfavorable weather. A much larger crop is expected than was harvested last year.

Stress of the Stage.

GRACE GREENWOOD DISCUSSES THE BREAKING DOWN OF ACTORS.

The sudden breaking down of dramatic artists during the past season is surely something sad and significant. Miss Anderson and Miss Langtry, actresses whose beauty has always had for its most perennial charm, health, robust and blooming, gave out before the more delicate and nervous Rosina Vokes, who endured almost to the end—fainting on the "home stretch"—with the goal in sight. What causes such premature giving out and giving up? Doubtless the monotonous depressing wear of "long runs," the drop of water falling eternally on the same spot, has something to do with it, but I think the trouble is principally owing to the strenuousness of artists who are nowadays making of playing a terrible role—a slavish service, not only to a capricious, pampered public, but to their own greed of fame and gold.

Beautiful Mary Anderson is prolonging her onerous task in "A Winter's Tale" for more than a year—a double persecution unrelieved—unrelieved, was "burning the candle at both ends," and hurrying on toward the darkness which is ahead of us all. Mrs. Langtry in assuming a single Shakespearean role beyond her intellectual grasp, was wrenching her pretty dramatic talent cruelly, and having the sense to perceive it, gave in. Mrs. Potter, who attempted a like task, did not perceive its impossibility and did not give in.

One American actress I think of in this connection has preserved upon the boards thus far, not only a characteristic, winsome womanliness, but a gentle dignity of mien; with the reposeful quality of which I have spoken. This is Miss Cayvan of the Lyceum. I find in her much of the charm which, during my stay in London, delighted me in Margo Robertson, Mrs. Kendal. The latter lovely and accomplished lady, mistress of the more refined comic and the gentler tragic, objects of modern society dramas, a genuine artist, alike in tender, gay and pathetic scenes, winning by smiles and melting by tears, Mr. Frohman promises soon to bring to New York. She will find American rivals in her own line, to be respected even by a famous English actress—not only the sympathetic Georgia Cayvan, the brilliant Ada Rehan, the sweet, poetic Annie Russell—but others not as well known, but fast coming to the fore."

Yet I hope she will not try to outshine them all, or to captivate the entire public. If she takes things in her old graceful, easy, natural laissez aller way, resolved not to work, or worry herself into a state of nervous prostration, even to gain a new world, she is sure of us and we of her.

Charming Rosina Vokes, light and gay as are her one-act plays, works a little too hard. Every moment of acting, every word, every look, every movement must tell. She gives herself no instants of rest, there is no let up in her sparkling comedy. Each character comes pell-mell realising Queen Elizabeth's idea of a portrait painted quite without shadow.

In certain plays, that of "The Circus Rider," for instance, the nervous and physical strain must be great. The hysterical laughter is prolonged till it threatens to be contagious to the audience; and the mock equestrianism, clever and exhilarating as it is, seems too much of a good thing—for her at least—and we might manage for her sake to do with less. Dollie Wilton, Mrs. Bancroft used to give a similar imitation in "Caste," but it was briefer and less elaborate—and her audiences were delighted and content. Miss Vokes' high spirits, energy and gymnastics are shared by her admirable company, not one of whom seems to enjoy, or [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

HOW MANY MORE!

In spite of the desperate efforts that are being made in the interest of the saloons to keep up the pretense that public opinion is indifferent to the rum traffic in this city, the sentiment against the rum power, the giant evils of which are thrusting themselves conspicuously upon public attention every day, is becoming so pronounced, that even the champions of the saloons are showing an inclination to evade the question. This fact was noticeable in last evening's Commercial, which, although it has stood for the saloons on all possible occasions, now evinces a strange sensitiveness on the subject and is rather inclined to handle it much as one would the hot end of a poker. That this is so furnishes additional evidence of the fact that no good word can be spoken of a traffic that is working so much evil in our city and to which is directly attributable so much suffering and misery.

In another column of THE WHIG this morning will be found the details of one more frightful accident for which the rum traffic must assume the terrible responsibility. When asked how he came to be walking about the tracks in the railroad yard, the only reason the poor, mutilated victim of the rumseller could give was that he had been drinking. That one word tells the whole story and the sequel furnishes a fearful indictment against the traffic now conducted in this city in bold, open defiance of the law.

Every thoughtful citizen will see in this sad case another illustration of the baneful effects of the saloons which are responsible not only for seven eighths of the infractions of the peace committed in this city, but for such accidents as the one referred to, and and will wonder how many more victims must be sacrificed to the greed of the rum power before these drunkard mills are closed.

How much longer are the saloons to be permitted to keep hoisted the flood gates of intoxication in our midst? Why should the rum power which is doing our city a grievous injury and to whose credit cannot be ascribed a single benefit, be a privileged class for whom the law has no terrors? These are questions that are now agitating the public mind and the agitation will not cease until the doors of the saloons are closed and the majesty of the law vindicated.

Harold M. Sewall, disbursing clerk of the Samoan Commission, arrived from Europe Monday, and remained for a short time at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. When seen by a New York Tribune reporter, Mr. Sewall said that he, of course, could say nothing in regard to the treaty, the contents of which could not be divulged until laid before the Senate. He felt sure, however, that the terms would be satisfactory although in some respects radically different from what was generally supposed. The other commissioners, Mr. Sewall said were still in Berlin when news of Mr. Phelps's appointment as Minister reached that city. It gave great satisfaction to his colleagues, with whom Mr. Phelps was popular, and they were satisfied that he would be heartily welcomed at the court of the young Emperor. Commissioner Kasson, Mr. Sewall added, was still in Carlsbad, and would not return to America until the early part of September. Mr. Bates, however, would return much sooner, probably during this month or the first half of August. He was at present in Paris. Mr. Sewall said, in addition, that the members of the commission had been highly pleased with their treatment in Berlin, which had been of the most cordial nature.

Thomas A. Edison, "the Wizard of Menlo Park," has been stopping at the small village of Bechtelsville, Pa., for the past week. He attracted a great deal of attention, and was followed by crowds of the plain country folk wherever he went. For the past four or five months large buildings, with mysterious looking machinery, have been going up on the Gilbert farm, a mile from Bechtelsville, on which a large tract of rich iron ore land has been purchased. Work was pushed night and day. Mr. Edison is at the head of a company which has purchased the land and put up the buildings to show to the world the experiments with the Wizard's latest invention, a patent ore separator, that is expected to revolutionize iron ore mining. The present mode of separating the ore from the earth and rock is an expensive and tedious one. The working of the new invention is explained in this way: The rock containing the ore, after passing through the crusher and being broken into pieces about the size of an egg, is conveyed in small buckets into a large hopper. From here it sifts in a thin stream down an incline, passing within a few inches of a powerful magnet. This latter is so heavily charged as to draw the iron ore from its course into one channel, permitting the rock and other foreign elements contained in the ore to pass through a runaway to the refuse pile. The invention, being patented, there is no secret about its working. Mr. Edison is accompanied by a number of New York capitalists.

(N. Y. Tribune.)

An Important Connecticut Case.

An interesting point of law is being raised in Connecticut by a woman who is suing a neighbor for damages alleged to have resulted from said neighbor placing fly-screens in his windows, thereby causing a greater number of flies to enter, come into, invade, and take up their residence in said plaintiff's house, to the great and painful injury of her peace of mind. The claim set up is that under the common law and certain special statutes made and provided (every) Connecticut family is bound to provide for its quota of flies and that the said defendant by the placing, or the causing to be placed, of the said screens, bars, wirecloth, network, fly-excluders, insect-discouragers, or by whatsoever other name, title or appellation they may be known, thereby fails to provide for the flies, driving them elsewhere and making the pro-rata of the community and especially of the defendant, owing, or arising from, the proximity, or nearness, of the said, or before mentioned, plaintiff's house to the defendant's; and the said plaintiff prays that an injunction issue directing the said defendant to remove from his windows and doors all obstructions to the free ingress and egress of flies of all sizes whatsoever at all hours of the day and night; and it is further prayed that damages be awarded the said plaintiff in the sum of $1,000, etc.

We quote from the plaintiff's petition as above, feeling certain that it is a case in which people will be interested, especially at this time of the year. Among the members of the legal profession especially it will doubtless attract much attention, and we trust that the necessarily condensed and hasty summary of the points which we present will be sufficient to give them an idea of the case. It is, we think, something new in jurisprudence—there is no precedent to be cited at the trial, and whatever the decision may be, it will immediately become a modern instance which will gradually fade into a wise saw.

The plan of defence of the party sued has not yet been outlined. It is stated that under the wise and equitable Connecticut law he cannot deny that it is his duty to provide for his share of the village flies; but it is is hinted that he will attempt to throw the burden of proof on the plaintiff by setting up the plea that no members of his apportionment of flies can be found in the plaintiff's house, they having, when they discovered that they were barred out from their rightful place, adjourned in a body to a German beer garden about two miles distant. This line of defence and the unavoidable rebuttal will, of course, render necessary the identification of the flies in open court, both those found in the plaintiff's house as well as those at the beer garden. Should the proprietor of the beer garden refuse to give up his flies, or should he secure their release by a writ of habeas corpus or something of that sort, it will greatly complicate matters, and may bring on long and bitter litigation. The apprehension of the flies by the sheriff will, it is suspected, require some skillful work on the part of that officer, and it is said that he has already secured detectives to assist, none of those employed on the Cronin murder, however, being engaged.

The outcome of the case will be awaited with interest. The sympathies of the people of Connecticut are reported as being largely with the plaintiff, and it is said that unlimited capital has been placed at her disposal to fight the matter to the bitter end. The legality of fly-screens has long been questioned by many people in that State, and now that a chance to test it has arisen they are determined that the popular side shall not lack for funds or encouragement. It is whispered that, if the plaintiff is successful, a combined attack will be made on the people who place fly-nets on their houses and on those misguided women, who, attaching a quantity of strips of paper to a long stick, deliberately "shoo" their flies out of their houses on to a long-suffering and already fly-supplied country.

EQUITABLE MORTGAGE COMPANY:

Gentlemen—During the past eighteen months I have placed a considerable amount of the Debentures and Loans of your company in Waterville and vicinity, and I believe that they are proving satisfactory in every respect. In May last I made a trip West, especially to look into the merits of the company, visiting the New York and home offices, besides a portion of the loaning field. Having satisfied myself that the securities of your company are safe, conservative and reliable, I do not hesitate to recommend them as such to all interested. Very respectfully yours,

"Battles and Leaders of the Civil War."

This great work, the most accurate, complete, startling and satisfactory history in all respects, that ever has or ever can be written of the war, comes to us in all the artistic excellence that the Century Co. is famous for, publishing house of America, if not of the world, can command.

Written by the very men who made the history on both sides, it is at once the most unique, original and interesting, as well as the most truthful and reliable work of the kind, for all its details, that this country ever has or ever will see.

Famous battles have been written by some one man, and have been made up from newspaper and other reports largely, while this has been written by more than a hundred of the very men who made the events they write about; hence is such as to ensure absolute correctness as far as is possible in human production. The statistics, especially for the Confederate army, have only been obtained in the last few years, and complete figures are given correctly for the first time in "Battles and Leaders."

The 1,000 Battle Scenes,

showing positions and movement of troops and vessels in all engagements are all taken from sketches made on the spot or have been submitted for criticism and review, to some one or more who was on the spot at the time, consequently their perfect accuracy may be relied upon. There are over 300 field maps, all of which are taken from official maps made by the Topographical Corps, which accompanied the army, showing the exact position of every battle, battery and skirmish line, both in the Union and Confederate armies on every battlefield. There are over four hundred portraits of eminent men on both sides in the war. Many of these are pictures loaned by the families of the men represented, and show a many of our most distinguished men in feature, dress and attitude, hitherto unknown to the public. It gives all the statistics relating to every battle of the civil war, whether by sea or land. The rosters of every regiment, brigade and division with its Colonel in command, and the losses in killed, wounded and missing, in both the Union and Confederate armies.

Many excellent works have been written on the war, and we do not wish to detract one iota from their merits, but to have all other works in our libraries and this MASTERPIECE left out, would be like having a bridge to cross a river with the middle span left out. Written by everybody who could throw any light on the subject—Generals, Colonels, Comodores, Captains, private soldiers and sailors, civilians, citizens, nurses in hospitals, etc. Illustrated by Alexander's special artists, engraved from original photographs especially for the Century Co., no pains or expense having been spared to secure not only the highest artistic excellence, but absolute accuracy, in fact as with the letter press so with the engravings, the authority behind them being their most valuable characteristic, this great work must ever stand as the standard HISTORY of the great struggle for National supremacy, and will be welcomed with delight to every lover of his country. To the Honorable Board of Railroad Commissioners of Maine:

Respectfully represents the Dexter & Piscataquis Railroad Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Maine, that it has located the line of its railroad from Dexter in the County of Penobscot, to Foxcroft, in the County of Piscataquis, and said location has been approved by the Railroad Commissioners of Maine.

That a plan of said location defining the distances and boundaries, has been filed with the Clerk of Courts of County Commissioners of Penobscot and Piscataquis counties, and another copy of the same with the Board of Railroad Commissioners. That said Dexter & Piscataquis Railroad Company is desirous of making a change in said location so filed, and to vary the same as follows: Commencing at Piscataquis river in said Foxcroft, where said location line crosses said river, and changing the line from said point at said river by running northerly and easterly until said line touches the located line of the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad east of the Dawes road, so-called, and thence running easterly along and on the location of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, and parallel with the track of the said Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, to a point in Foxcroft known as the Passenger Job, where said Dexter & Piscataquis Railroad Company has located its depot grounds.

And said Dexter & Piscataquis Railroad Company hereby petitions your Epps' Cocoa.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

"You may know the value a girl places upon herself by the man she marries," is one of the latest of Sam Jones' apt remarks.

A Western newspaper recently had this advertisement: "A middle-aged woman who is capable, honest and industrious, but as homely as a stone fence, wants work."

The grain speculators of Minneapolis are gnashing their teeth because the city authorities have assessed 8,000,000 bushels of wheat in the elevators there, a thing never done before.

The English "Nitrate King," Col. North, says the New York reporters have greatly exaggerated his private fortune in placing it at £10,000,000. "It is vastly smaller than that," he says.

White Mountain tourists this summer will miss the sight of snow. The famous snow arch melted under the June sun, and even in Tuckerman's Ravine the snow has almost entirely disappeared.

It is said that the wife of Count Tolstoi, the Russian novelist, is staying at Atlantic City. She has come to this country to look after the interests of her husband's novels and works on religious subjects.

While workmen were opening a road up the side of Pigeon Mountain in Georgia they found beneath a large flat rock an iron pot containing $3000 in specie. It is supposed the money was hidden during the rebellion.

San Bernardino, Cal., keeps clear of tramps by holding the vagabonds under a waterspout for thirty minutes, giving them a severe cold-water bath, and ordering them to leave the town. They do not lose any time in obeying.

Miss Caroline Klug, the young artist who received the order for designs representing women's industries, for which she could have $300, thinking they were to be used to decorate cigarette packages, refused to furnish them.

Ten years ago the plug and fine cut tobacco prince of this country was a New Yorker who did a business of $6,000 annually. Now it is stated, there is one firm in St. Louis that does nearly twice as large a business, and another with sales reported at $20,000,000 a year in that branch of the trade.

Gradually the militia is moving out of Johnstown, Pa., no need for their presence now existing there. As the work of clearing up the dismantled town is in the hands of its former citizens, the work goes on smoothly and well. Rebuilding will move along in good earnest after the middle of the summer.

In the machine hall of the Paris Exhibition is a casting weighing ten tons. This piece de fonderie is not intended to serve any useful purpose, but merely intended to show what can be accomplished by pattern makers, moulder, and founder. As regards intricacy of detail, it has never been surpassed.

"Quah thing 'bout dissher law business," said Uncle Jopps. "What's the matter, uncle? Have they been mixing you up?" "Dat's jess what I doan' 'dorstan' it." "What don't you understand?" "Why, I pays de lawyer ten dollers for git me out of trouble, and de Judge he goes ahead anyhow an' does jes ez he pleases erbout it."

The death has been recorded of Mrs. Dallas, once famous as Miss Glyn, a brilliant Shakespearean actress. For the last two years she had been suffering from a painful malady which she had borne with fortitude. Isabella Glynn—this was her right name—was born in Edinburgh in 1825. Her father added to the profession of an architect the self-imposed duties of a preacher.

Fifteen years ago, says Chauncy M. Depew, one man owned a majority of the stock of the New York Central Railroad, and a few others most of the balance. Now it has ten thousand proprietors, and the large majority of them are people of small property. This indicates a process of distribution which will specially change the character and management of American corporations.

An absent-minded German professor was one day observed walking down the street with one foot continually in the gutter, the other on the pavement. A pupil meeting him, saluted him with "Good evening, Professor; how are you?" "I was very well, I thought, answered the professor, "but now I don't know what's the matter with me; for the last half hour I have been limping."

A citizen of Elmo, Cal., has just finished working up a fir tree which grew on his place. He received $12 for the bark, built a frame house 14x20 feet, 8 feet high, with kitchen 6 feet wide and 20 feet long; built a woodshed 14x20 feet; made 320 fence rails 10 feet long; made 334 railroad ties and 500 boards 6 inches wide and two feet long, and 15 cords of wood, all from one tree, and has a part of the tree left.

Professor Day, P. Todd, of Amherst College Observatory, has just received papers from the State Department at Washington, appointing him Chief of Expedition to observe the total eclipse of the sun visible Dec. 22. In Southwestern Africa. Professor Todd will be accompanied by a large staff of scientists and assistants, and intends to leave New York for the destination, St. Paul de Loanda, in the Portugal Province of Angola, about Oct. 1.

George Alfred Townsend has discovered at Nantes, France, a genuine American negro named Sam Anderson, who is the chief of a wine-shop and cafe-chantant. Sam is a native of South Carolina. He went to Europe with Jarrett & Palmer's "Uncle Tom" combination, and while in France married a French widow, the proprietor of a drinking-shop in Rennes, afterwards removed to Nantes. Sam is disgusted with the Gallic nation and is anxious to get back to New York, despite the lack of prejudice which recognizes his right to marry a white woman.

The letter carriers of Johnstown on Wednesday received their first contribution of money sent them by any of their fellow carriers. A letter was received from the carriers in Omaha, Neb., with $80 inclosed, for which the boys are very thankful. There are ten carriers at Johnstown, and they lost their uniforms and personal property. Some of them suffered the loss of members of their families and were left in a very bad condition. Each man is going to write a sketch of his personal experience in the flood while delivering mail matter, and will mail it to their Omaha brethren as a memento.

A former operatic singer, now a teacher of singing, says that it is impossible to stand on a carpet or rug and sing one's best. Bare boards make a good floor to stand on when you sing. Stone is just as good and glass is better, but carpets deaden the voice and make a trained singer feel choked and suffocating. To sing well one must not have anything above or in front to catch the voice. Even the brim of a derby hat will impair the voice of a man who wears it while he sings. That is why singers stand for, out by the footlights to sing, and decorate the stage of the New York Academy of Music projects far beyond the proscenium arch, so that even the gallery will love that old theatre.

Says Judge Lanham in the St. Louis Republic: "Grant used to oilop cord-wood in a peculiar way, cutting the tree all around instead of half down on one side and then on the other, like an ordinary woman. While Fremont he visited St. Louis, and I was with him to Mr. Sire, and passing the spot where he once chopped wood I said: 'General, the fellow who cut that stump was a poor wood-chopper, don't you think so?' The President replied with a sigh: 'That might be true, Judge, but to tell the truth, I was happier then than got my price for it, and returned to my family and was happy; but now the burden of a nation is on me, and I know no rest. Those were happy days, Judge.'"

KISSED ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE.

"You scoundrel!" yelled young Jacob Green.

At his good neighbor, Brown.

"You kissed my wife upon the street.—I ought to knock you down."

"That's where you're wrong," good Brown replied.

In accents mild and meek;

"I kissed her, that I've not denied—But kissed her on the cheek—

And I did it because she looked so handsome—the very picture of beauty and health. What is the secret of it?" "Well," replied Green, "since you ask it, I will tell you; she uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." I accept your apology. Good night." "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy for the delicate derangements and weaknesses of females. Sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of giving satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it returned.

Mr. Russell Myrick, of the firm of Myrick & Henderson, Fort Smith, Ark., says he wishes to add his testimony to the thousands which have already been given as to Swift's Specific. He says he derived the most signal benefit from its use to cure painful boils and sores resulting from impure blood.

All scurf and tartar disappear From mouth and teeth, though dark and dry; And all becomes fresh, pure and clear, If we but Sozodont apply. That magic wash—all now confess— Gives to the mouth new loveliness.
MWF&wlw

When taken for a few days, potash mixtures impair digestion, take away the appetite, and dry up the gastric juices which should assist in digesting and assimilating the food. Swift's Specific has just the opposite effect; it improves digestion, brings appetite, and builds up the general health.

ITCHING AGONIES.

Every Night I Scratched until the Skin was Raw.

Body covered with ickles like spots of mortar. Another Specialist, Doctors useless. Cure Hopeless. Ealiray cured by the Cuticura Remedies in five weeks.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary cure your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until they came thicker and when it began to look like spots of mortar after on, and which came off in layers, accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scabs, itching terribly meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your Cuticura Remedies, and purchased them from my druggist, and to my astonishment almost immediate relief began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, and I have been fully cured. That the disease thirteen months before I began taking the Cuticura Remedies, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My mother also used Cuticura Remedies to rid me of it, and I know of a great many who have taken them, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babies with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words the thanks to you for what the Cuticura Remedies have done to me. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's.

Feb. 7, 1888.—No trace of the disease from which I suffered has shown itself since my cure. C. C. C.
